50 AMERICANS MURDERED IN MEXICO

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 22.—Henry P. Fletcher, American Ambassador to Mexico, told the House Rules Committee today that since his appointment three years ago about 50 Americans had been killed in Mexico without a single prosecution being made by Mexican authorities. Replying to questions by Chairman Campbell, Fletcher said withdrawal of recognition of the Carranza government by the United States would only increase the turmoil in the southern republic. He added that he did not know of any revolutionary leader capable of establishing a permanent government. The Ambassador said he had not noticed any special anti-American feeling in Mexico and explained that the presence of more American citizens there than other foreigners probably accounted for the greater number of outrages affecting Americans.

PRESIDENT'S REQUEST DENIED

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 22.—In response to President Wilson's request that it approve the provisional appointment of an American representative on the reparations commission to be created under the peace treaty, the Senate Foreign Relations committee today adopted a declaration that until the treaty is ratified no power exists to carry out the provisions.

Situation at National Capital Between Whites and Blacks May Result in Martial Law--House of Commons Holds All Night Session Over Peace Treaty-- France Continues to Refuse Vote of Confidence to Clemenceau

HOLLIS MAN AND HIS HORSE GO OVER NINE FOOT EMBANKMENT

Hollis, July 22.—David J. Wright, one of the board of selectmen and a life-long resident of Hollis, narrowly escaped death when he fell down a nine-foot embankment. Mr. Wright was leading a horse unloading hay with a horse fork, when the horse was thrown against him and both horse and man were thrown over a railing and down the embankment. Mr. Wright suffered a broken wrist, and was badly bruised about the head. The horse was uninjured.

The Whaleback fog horn has done more blowing the past week than it did all the past season.

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 22.—Martial law may be necessary to end race rioting here which resulted last night in the killing of five persons and injuring of at least fifty others. Several days of disorder after a wave of attack on white women, robbery and assaults by negroes culminated in a series of race battles during the night. At least 200 rioters were under arrest today. The dead include a detective sergeant, shot through the heart by a negro girl when he entered a house from which there was firing into the street. Another detective was seriously wounded by a negro in the same section of the city. Four negro men were killed and several others were fatally wounded. Three patrol men were badly wounded. Reserve squads of police and private guards were rushed through the streets of the city all night in answer to pit calls. While in the minor disturbances of Saturday and Sunday night crowds of white men assumed the aggressive, last night's rioting was marked by a general preparedness on the part of negroes who during the day purchased hundreds of revolvers. Early in the evening they formed crowds and attacked white men wherever found. A negro riding on a back platform of a street car opened fire with a revolver on a crowd of white men, women and children and wounded four before he was himself felled by seven bullets fired by an officer. Late in the night negroes raced about in automobiles firing bullets and revolvers at all whites within range. The first police report today told of another white woman assaulted and injured by a negro at Capitol Heights a suburb, last night. The woman was practically disrobed in her struggles with her assailant who escaped after she had scratched and bitten him badly. This was the seventh attack on white women by negro men in and near the District of Columbia, within two weeks.

In a statement the Board of Commissioners the governing authority of the District of Columbia, said that at no time last night was the situation beyond the control of the authorities and that with the aid of the military and the co-operation of citizens the police would remain in control.

London, July 22.—At what was virtually an all night session the House of Commons today completed its consideration of both the German Peace Treaty and the Anglo-French convention. The bill carrying the approval of the German treaty was considered in committee of the whole, exciting lengthy debate in which Premier Lloyd George took an active part. The bill was then placed before the House and passed its third reading after a motion by John Devlin to reject it as a protest against the Premier's attitude toward Ireland had been defeated 163 to 3. Then at 3:00 a. m. the Anglo-French pact was taken up and the bill approving it was unanimously passed after a short and sharp debate in which the argument that the treaty was not consistent with the League of Nations failed to find any substantial echo. The German treaty passed through all its stages without amendment.

Paris, July 22.—In readiness to hear the government's declaration of its policies on which it had been announced a vote of confidence would be asked the Chamber of Deputies met this morning. Premier Clemenceau, it developed, was not ready to make his statement and the Chamber adjourned until afternoon. The agitation against the Government has been most marked on the question of the high cost of living. Chief among other government policies arousing objection particularly on the Socialist side, has been the slow progress of reconstruction and demobilization.

Washington, July 22.—President Wilson had sufficiently recovered today from his indisposition to resume conferences with republican senators at the White House without objection from Rear Admiral Grayson, his physician. Admiral Grayson said the President was in no pain but that he was still extremely weak. "The President is sitting up and now receiving a caller," he continued, "and will probably be up at least until lunch time. He was very anxious to get to work this morning and I thought I would do him no harm to see one or two people. It depends upon how he feels in the middle of the day whether he goes back to bed again this afternoon." The President went into conference at 10:00 with Senator Edge, of New Jersey, and he hoped to fill other engagements.

(By Associated Press)
New York, July 22.—A general court martial appointed by Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Barry, commanding the Eastern department, was convened to complete arrangements for the trial next month of several ranking officers returned from France. The names of the defendants and the charges have not been disclosed, but they are said to include four colonels, who are accused of being intoxicated and of conduct unbecoming an officer. ## Wirthmor and Welworth Waists —After a very careful investigation we have arranged to distribute these two nationally-known and nationally favored lines of Waists in this city. Before deciding on this step we learned the Wirthmor and Welworth Waists were being handled by many of the best stores in America; that they had attained through their unvarying excellence a nation-wide popularity; that because of the unique Wirthmor Plan under which they are made and sold that they always represented the highest possible standard of value in popular price Blouses, and further because of this very unusual method of making and selling Waists we would be able to show the new and wanted styles first, in many instances long in advance of their appearance in the market generally.

These are America's only known priced Waists, and they are sold at the same low prices the nation over.

SELECTMEN ARE DIRECTING THE POLICE FORCE

No More Free Telephone Service; Station Closed.

Hampton Beach is still without an authorized Chief of Police owing to the resignation of Chief Robert E. Tolman and Policemen Daniel Brown and Roy Hazeltine.

The operation of the force, which now consists of Arthur E. Rowe, a former member of the force, Sam Jacobs and a man from Lowell, whose principal work was in keeping the large number of automobiles moving, is directed by Selectman Byron Redmond. Policeman Rowe, when asked if he was the acting chief, said that there was no chief and that he and the other policemen were taking their orders from Redmond.

The resignation of Chief Tolman, who has been a very efficient official, owing to his differences with the selectmen, is regretted by the business men of the beach, and it is said that the matter may be taken up by the Board of Trade.

The building which has been used for Police Headquarters is closed, and this was said to be due to the fact that persons have used the telephone in the building during the absence of the policemen, causing a bill of expense to the town to which the selectmen objected.

GENERAL HOWARD DENIES AGREEMENT

Concord, July 21.—Gen. Charles W. Howard late this afternoon made the following statement:

"During the past two months, the duration of the controversy regarding the position of adjutant general, I have refrained from making any public statement or comment on the situation, and I would not at this time if I did not feel that my reputation as a man and a citizen had been unjustly attacked.

"In the Boston Sunday papers, and in The Manchester Union under date of Monday, July 21, it is stated that I agreed at the time of my appointment to retire from the position of adjutant general for a returned soldier when the governor so desired. The first intimation I had that I had been nominated adjutant general was through a newspaper representative on Jan. 2. Previous to the inauguration of the governor I never had any conversation with him regarding the position, and I never solicited any of my friends to intercede with the governor in my behalf for the appointment.

"Furthermore, I had no conversation with the governor in regard to the appointment until after Jan. 7, on which date I was appointed by the governor and council, and that conversation had nothing to do with the subject matter of my retirement, and no word passed between us on that occasion or any other from which an agreement to retire might even be implied.

"The governor's letter to me of May 20 was the first intimation I had received that he desired me to resign in order to appoint a returned soldier, and it contained no reminder or suggestion of any previous agreement or understanding that I should retire, as would have been the case had he understood that such an agreement had been made.

"In regard to the wording of the commission, I will say that no commission in the history of the state issued to a general or a field officer (and by general officer I include the adjutant general) contains the words 'with the advice of the council.'"

RIGHT TO HAVE LIQUOR UPHOLD

Drastic Prohibition Enforcement Bill Is Passed with But Little Argument.

Washington, July 22.—The prohibition enforcement bill, drastic provisions and all, was adopted Monday session by action by the house, but a man's right to store liquor in his home stood up against all attacks. On the final count, only three votes were recorded in favor of an amendment to make home possession of intoxicants unlawful.

After all perfecting amendments had been adopted and others designed to make the bill less severe were bowed over in a chorus of "noes" an attempt was made to adjourn over night. This prevailed, but there was a demand for a roll call and the prohibition forces, summoned from all sides by their leaders, piled into the chamber in sufficient numbers to keep the house in session tonight for the tedious roll call vote. On half a dozen amendments in debate which had to be passed on before a vote was taken on the bill at a whole.

There was just an inch speech-making as on previous days, the tempo of the house being such that it was not inclined to listen to arguments. The one speech since the beginning of debate which was listened to by the entire house, was by Representative Mann, former Republican floor leader, who opposed the elimination of the provision permitting a person to have liquor in his possession for private use.

Harry A. Garfield, U. S. Fuel Administrator, says: "Buy now—in August or the Autumn will be too late. A big coal shortage is coming. Thousands of miners are going back to Europe. Coal production has fallen off considerably and a shortage of many million tons looks probable. My advice to consumers is to buy NOW while they can get a selection and DELIVERY."

BLAZING DIRIGIBLE CRASHES INTO BANK BUILDING

Ten Killed When Dirigible Catches Fire
Over the Chicago Streets--Two Escaped In Parachutes

(By Associated Press)
Chicago, July 21--After travelling back and forth over the Chicago loop for some time, a dirigible balloon bearing five passengers, exploded and the blazing mass fell through the skylight of the Illinois Savings Bank.

The police fixed the list of dead as ten, and more than a score injured. Three of the dead were passengers on the dirigible, the other seven were employees of the bank. The accident happened at 4.50 when spectators saw a cloud of smoke rise from the dirigible, and then three parachutes dropped from the balloon, two opened while the third crashed to the street. The blazing dirigible dropped on to the bank building and through the skylight, the gas tank fell into the building and exploded and fire followed. When the fire was extinguished seven bodies, which the police state are those of employees of the bank were found. The balloon was an experiment in the dirigible type, after the pattern of the army machines and it was making regular trips from one amusement place to another.

SORT MAIL IN GERMAN SCHOOL ROOMS

Coblenz, July 21--American soldiers employed in the United States post office in Coblenz have been sorting mail in school rooms which during the early days of the war, were used by the then German Emperor for holding councils of war with his chiefs.

Soon after the beginning of the war in 1914, the Emperor was in Coblenz several months, spending several hours each day with army generals who were then using the school house as an army headquarters. The school building near the center of town and several large rooms on the first floor were taken over for the army post office a few days after the Americans took over the Coblenz bridgehead last December.

RHODE ISLAND CARS STILL BLOCKED

(By Associated Press)
Providence, R. I., July 21--Rhode Island street car service is apparently at a standstill with apparently no outlook for an immediate settlement. The award to the Boston car men of 62 cents an hour and an eight-hour day had an important effect upon the men and when the receivers of the road offered a settlement of 62 cents an hour and same working agreement as in 1917, it was voted down.

TEN KILLED IN RACE RIOT AT CAPITOL

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 21--At midnight the known casualties were ten dead, two dying and many injured, while the unofficial report from the police reports placed the number of dead much higher. One of the dead is a city detective shot through the breast by a negro woman firing from a window. The negroes age 17 was also shot. In another part of the city a negro firing from a garage kept the provost guard at bay several minutes but he was shot down.

Washington, July 21--Rioting between negroes and whites broke out again late tonight and the report received at 11.30 tonight at the police stations was that one negro had been killed, four wounded. The negro killed was hit on the head by a marine after a clash on a street car.

Crowds in which there were many uniform men, soldiers, sailors and marines, moved up and down Pennsylvania avenue and despite the presence of troops of cavalry and 400 armed guards, they grew more and more determined and negroes were hunted on every side. Reports of street cars being stoned by whites and blacks were made at the stations. One negro was shot but not killed. A mob composed of felons chased a negro several blocks.

The cause of the disturbance is the recent attacks made by negroes upon white women in various parts of the city.

ASK MEXICO TO ACCOUNT FOR ASSAULT

Washington, July 21--Urgent representations by the State Department as the result of the attack on American sailors in a small boat from the monitor Cheyenne near Tampico, July 6, were expected by officials here to bring prompt action by the Mexican government. No reply had been received early today from the commander of the cruiser Tanaka who was instructed Saturday by Secretary Daniels to make a full report. This report was expected to develop the character of the band which held up and robbed the sailors while they were on official duty.

First accounts of the incident represented the assailants as bandits. Secretary Daniels said today no part of the Pacific Fleet now en route for the west coast would be diverted to Mexican waters, adding that if additional forces were needed they would be drawn from the Atlantic fleet. A dispatch to the state department today from Tampico said bandits had robbed the Atlantic Refining Co.'s oil loading station at Puerto Lobos, near Tampico, of about $10,000 last Wednesday. The funds were intended for the company's payroll.

HOUSE STILL STRUGGLING WITH PROHIBITION

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 21--The prohibition enforcement bill drastic measure and all was today made ready for agreement by the House. A man's right to store liquor in his own house was voted when an amendment seeking to make it unlawful to have liquor in the house, was voted down with only three yeas in its favor. After all of the perfecting amendments had been either adopted or voted down, an attempt was made to adjourn over night, but the leaders refused and a roll call brought the members hurrying into the chambers in sufficient numbers to complete a quorum, and keep the House in session through the tedious roll calls on the various amendments.

PRESIDENT MUST STAY IN BED

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 21--President Wilson was in a weakened condition but in no wise a serious condition, as the result of an attack of dysentery. Rear-Admiral Grayson his medical attendant said that while he was in considerable pain he was improving and he would insist that he remain quiet for a day or two.

INHABITANTS RETURNING TO VERDUN

Paris, July 21--Premier Clemenceau spent Sunday in the Meuse district, where he listened to the expressions of leaders there on economic reconstruction work. He asked the people to have patience and not to despair. France, he said, would be rebuilt in all her grandeur and historic nobility.

The premier had a great reception at Verdun. The deputy mayor told him that 4000 of the 14,000 inhabitants have returned, but that most of them will have to leave for the winter unless their houses are repaired. The premier assured the workmen that huts and coal to their use will be provided in proper quantities. He announced that the American Government two days ago offered to send competent workmen to aid in reconstruction.

NO SETTLEMENT OF MARINERS STRIKE IN SIGHT

(By Associated Press)
New York, July 21--With no sign of a settlement in sight on the strike of the marine engineers which was tied up shipping, the Marine Engineers broke off all negotiations with the U. S. Shipping Board and allied themselves with the officers, cooks, etc. who have been out for two weeks. There is some talk that the fight may extend to the railroads as some of the railroad tug hives have joined the strikers.

JITNEY DRIVER FINED IN HAMPTON COURT

B. T. Porter of Dover, who has been running a jitney bus between this city and Hampton Beach, was arraigned before Judge Lamprey in Hampton police court on Monday evening, charged with a violation of the jitney law in running in competition with an electric road, without filing the necessary bond with the Public Service Commission.

Porter through his attorney Everett Galloway of Dover denied that he was running a jitney at regular running time, but the evidence of the witnesses from this city and Hampton was sufficient and Judge Lamprey imposed a fine of $25 and cost. He entered an appeal and furnished bonds to prosecute his appeal at the October term of Court. County Solicitor Sleeper appeared for the state.

15,000 Miles on the Teeth of Montana Roads

Since July, 1916, Goodrich De Luxe Truck Tires on the wheels of a 5-ton truck operated by The Texas Company, handling petroleum and its products, with a 750-gallon tank astride its chassis, has been crunching over rock-strewn paths daily.

Yet only the other day De Luxe veterans on the rear wheels gave way to De Luxe successors, having delivered over 15,000 miles of service in three years.

Such heroic and commendable service from De Luxe Tires is due to the extra-deep, extra-thick treads, treads so resilient and tough as to defy penetration by rocks.

The Farm Help Problem.

The procurement of farm help at wages which the farmers can afford to pay is still difficult and there is no relief in sight. One reason, and the chief reason, is that on the farm the hours are longer than in almost any other occupation, the work harder and the pay less. Why, then, should a man capable of doing a different kind of work seek employment on a farm? Let him answer who can.

Some time ago this paper in commenting upon the contention that the eight-hour day is impracticable, if not impossible, on the farm freely admitted that a farm day's work cannot be done in eight hours; and asked why the problem could not be solved by having the men work more than eight hours and paying them extra for overtime, as is done in other lines of work.

It is apparent that thoughts along this line are suggesting themselves to others. One of the leading agricultural papers of the East recently published an article on "The Farmer's Eight-hour Day," in which it spoke of the difficulty of establishing the short day on the farm, but admitted that "Right now things are out of balance," evidently meaning by this that the farmers are placed at a disadvantage in comparison with other employers so far as the question of help is concerned. The paper goes on to say: "Somehow it seems difficult for farmers to realize that the old order of things has gone and that today they are in direct competition with the world, which faces a very real and exciting code of living. . . . Why should a farmer expect his hired man to work after hours getting in hay just because the weather happens to be fine? And why should he complain about the difficulty of getting help at $3 to work ten hours when the city mills might pay $4 for eight hours?"

The paper in question reaches the conclusion that ultimately farm wages must compare favorably with city wages, and that the extra cost must be added to the final cost of the goods, which additional bill the city consumer must pay cheerfully.

Just how this problem will be worked out it is impossible to say, but it would seem that the solution must lie somewhat along the line indicated. It cannot be expected that men will work on farms from altruistic motives. It is purely a business proposition. The average man is going to work where he can get the most money for the physical or mental strength that he puts into his work, and as matters stand today the farm is unable to compete with other industries in attracting and retaining employees. At the present prices for produce, high as they are, most farmers feel compelled to get along with as little hired help as possible, and they will continue to feel so until they can pass the extra cost along to the consumer as the proprietors of other industries do.

Yet it will be well to face the troubles of the day as they arise and not worry overmuch about the future. Sometimes the most threatening situations fade away before they are reached, and while we may never see the eight-hour day on the farm, it is quite possible that if it should come it would not be such a calamity as consumers believe it would be. There was a time when the eight-hour day in any industry was considered extravagant, but it has come and the world still revolves on its axis. Perhaps it will continue to do so if the time ever comes when the farmer's hired man is able to hold up his head and say "I'm wit' you."

The State's Failure to Do Justice to Our Soldiers.

Now, if Gov. Bartlett of New Hampshire had had as much enthusiasm about having his state bestow a bonus to the returned war heroes of a more substantial nature than $30 as he has had about building up the state militia, the results in the long run might be more satisfactory. If $30 represents New Hampshire's gratitude and appreciation of bullet dodging in the war zone, she has evidently failed to grasp how destructive a process carrying on war has become. It was Gov. Bartlett's idea that $30 would about square the buddies who were lucky enough to get back. Since this has become generally known, it is said that thousands of New Hampshire people have expressed the wish that the Portsmouth governor could be sent across that new "memorial bridge" to be built across the Piscataqua, and not be allowed to come back. — Lowell, Mass., Sun.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Land's Sake, What A Condition!

(From the New York Sun)
 An aviator is arrested for landing in a New York park to save his life, but the operator of a blackbird lands it where he will, to take a life, and he escapes.

Why Cold To Erin?

(From the Philadelphia Record, item.)
 At a great mass meeting in New York the president of the so-called "Irish Republics" was received with vociferous applause, while mention of the name of the President of the United States was greeted with hisses and groans. And still some people wonder why so many red-blooded Americans remain cold to the appeals of Erin. There's a reason.

Few Will Drink At The Price

(From the New York Sun)
 A physician is permitted to prescribe a quart at a time if the patient is under his personal supervision, but few can afford to keep a doctor.

Then, Corn On The Too

(From the Cincinnati Times-Star)
 Having abolished corn in the cup, perhaps the regulators of other people's lives will now abolish corn on the cob, the eating of which is unmanly.

Mexico Is Our Baby

(From the Chicago Tribune)
 It is a pretty little and safe guess that the first draft which the League of Nations will draw against any account will be drawn against the American and that it will arise out of Mexican conditions. We know it and our Government does not want to honor the draft.

Diplomats may try to hand the mandate in Armenia and Turkey and other places in which we have no business, but nature landed us a mandate in Mexico and necessity will see that we exercise it.

We may ignore the claims of Americans who have rights to property and life in Mexico but we shall not be able to ignore the claims of French and British who have rights to property and life there.

The French and British have had enough property destroyed without submitting to further destruction. They need their capital and they need the returns from it. The French, British and Americans are the League of Nations as at present constituted and America is responsible for Mexico.

We shall not escape our dilemma by trying to talk it to death. It will survive everything but action on our part. We are sending a battalion to take part in the pacification of Mexico. The farther the field lies from home the more realistic our procedure becomes. When the need is at home, when it is where we could do something and do good to all concerned by doing something, we content ourselves with pastoral visits and affect not to see the faces made at us after we have distributed our tracts.

Putting Boston On Her Feet

(From the Springfield Union)
 By giving a long ride for a nickel Boston's trolley system became a great discourager of pedestrianism, and now by giving a shorter ride for a dime, the same system becomes the chief factor in a great revival of pedestrianism. Present indications are that the walking public will derive much physical benefit from the increased fare, but there is nothing to indicate a material financial benefit for the trolley system.

The Backyard Whiskey Crip

(From the Columns of the Toronto Globe)
 If the Ontario temperance act is to be properly enforced in Essex County prohibition workers say, the prolific dandelion must be eliminated, from pastures and back yards of the border county. Records of Windsor police court seem to bear out this contention. In less than one week ten convictions were made here for drunkenness. Eight of the offenders claimed their intoxication was due to drinking wine made from dandelions.

Analysis of some of the wine seized by officers of the provincial licensing department showed it to be more "kick" than either raisin whiskey or the genuine article while the "hang-over" qualities of the dandelion concoction were evident from the condition of the men who appeared in court.

Vacation Without Rebuke

(From the Philadelphia Press)
 John Massolelli, in the most remarkable of all war poems, "August, 1914," gave us an intimate picture of the customary peace of the countryside as contrasted with the horror that had just begun to sweep through human life. It has been curious to note the increasing rebuke that nature leveled at the soul-torn human being as the war destroyed our belief in the peace of the human spirit as contrasted with the wondrous calm of the external world in which we live.

How unsatisfying most vacations were that we took during these hectic years of war. And how different now! We can look out on a beautiful countryside and find its peaceful charm matched in our own hearts. Moreover there is that exultation in a new peace of mind that we have earned through a just but terrible struggle.

If we are searching for deeper reasons for the unusual zest there is being exhibited in this vacation period, which we see on all sides, perhaps it is due to the fact that we can now face nature without feeling the rebuke of her profound claim.

Why Roseate War Taxes?

(From the Los Angeles Times)
 War taxes in time of peace are no more necessary than is war bread. It is for ourselves to decide how rapidly the war debt shall be paid. Would it not be well for the present Congress to reduce the income tax and other war taxes to something near the rate in effect before the war and let us work on the basis for a couple of years? The acts passed at the present session are not immutable. Why not start with a burden made as light as possible and increase it as our industries get more firmly established? If the next generation were to be freed from the hard necessity of daily labor it would become decadent. That is the experience of every country known to history. A parsimonious father generally means a prodigal son. That is one of the mysterious laws by which nature achieves her hidden ends; it is the law that has given birth to the adage that, in America, from the furrow to the furrow is but the distance of three generations. To assume the burdens of generations yet unborn is to impoverish ourselves and promote a paucity of weaklings.

RED CROSS RE-MODEL RUSSIAN PRISONERS

Paris, July 22.—(Herald) A million Russians in Germany who formerly were prisoners of war have been lifted out of despondency within the last four months, partly by a course of training in American ideals, American sports and American spirit, said Major James A. Babbitt, of Philadelphia, when he returned recently from Germany on his way to the United States.

Major Babbitt is a professor in Harvard College and a member of the American Football Rules Committee. He was chief of the Bureau of Medical and Surgical Relief for the American Red Cross in Germany and visited nearly all the camps where Russian prisoners were interned.

"We found the Russian war prisoners in a state of complete lassitude, mentally and physically," he said. "They had spent four years in the neglect and misery of German internment camps. It was enough to break the stoniest man's spirit. Their own country had forgotten them and no word had come from their relatives and friends. There was no future in Germany nor hope of anything better in their own country. Hundreds of thousands of Russians who had fought valiantly for the allied cause were slowly dying from depression, mental inactivity and physical malnutrition."

"We put them to school like children. Athletic games were introduced into the camps and these stimulated the prisoners physically while motion pictures and other mental recreations heightened their dull hours. Their hospitals were provided with every needed medical and surgical requisite. The camps were organized under the command of the American army personnel. They began to take on a new physical aspect and the men showed signs of returning life and courage. Although they at first regarded us with suspicion, this was soon changed and they looked upon us as friends. They formed camp committees which brought all their needs, grievances and fears to our attention."

DOVER'S EX-MAYOR, AFTER SERVING HIS COUNTRY, RETURNS

Dover, July 21.—Ex-Mayor Fred N. Beckwith returned from France, Saturday and arrived in Dover this morning. Mrs. Beckwith went to New York to meet her husband upon his arrival. Mr. Beckwith was Dover's mayor at the time he entered the service. He left with the first draft contingent from Dover to Camp Devens. While at Devens he was selected to go to the officers' training camp, which was started at Devens and finished up at Petersburg, Va. He was commissioned as second lieutenant in the infantry and shortly afterwards, he was assigned to overseas duties and has been in France for over a year. Previous to going to France he was married in New York.

He has been at all the important battlefronts along the western defense and when the armistice was signed he was sent to Coblenz, Germany, with a detachment, and while there was stricken with influenza. He recovered and was ordered home. He has been made a first lieutenant during his stay in France. He expects to be discharged some time this week and after the discharge will resume his business management of the Beckwith Box Toe Company, in which business he is part owner with his brother and father.

All Dover was glad to welcome home their fighting chief and were loud in their praise of his war record, and the citizens of Dover feel highly honored in having a chief executive who did not shrink his duty and who waived any business exemption and also an exemption on account of defective vision. He made good.

TO INVESTIGATE CAUSE OF DIRIGIBLE FIRE

(By Associated Press)
Chicago, July 22.—Official inquiry was started today to fix the responsibility for the explosion and collapse of the dirigible which crashed through the roof of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank yesterday afternoon killing 11 persons and injuring 24 others. Seventeen employees of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., of Akron, Ohio, owners of the airship, have been detained pending a decision as to whether charges of criminal carelessness shall be filed against them. Among them is Jack Bantline, pilot of the airship who escaped by jumping with a parachute. Of the 11 dead, nine were employees of the bank and two were passengers in the airship. When the balloon crashed through the skylight of the bank more than 200 employees, mostly girls were at work.

ENTIRE DAY OF SPEECH MAKING

(By Associated Press)
Washington, July 22.—An entire day of speech making on the peace treaty was before the Senate, four senators having given notice that they would make addresses. Senator McNary, Republican of Oregon, who was to speak first in support of the League of Nations was to be followed by Senator Moses, Republican of New Hampshire, and Senators Johnson of South Dakota, and Beckham of Kentucky, Democrats.

The declaration in the form of a resolution by Senator Knox was adopted without a record vote. The resolution follows: "That it is the judgment of the committee that until the proposed treaty is ratified in accordance with its terms no power exists to execute any of its provisions either provisionally or otherwise."

CIVIL WAR VETERANS HOLD REUNION AT NAHANT

The 11th Massachusetts Infantry Association held its annual summer reunion and outing at the Relay House, Nahant, Monday. Portsmouth was represented by John D. Symonds.

Only fourteen members were present at the gathering. Out of a regiment which during the four years of the Civil War had 3600 men in the ranks at various times, less than 100 are now living, according to Charles S. Parker of Arlington, adjutant. Three have died since the first of this year. They were Capt. David Linneman of Dover, who died in March; Loren Frost of Haverhill, who was 97 years old on his last birthday and who died in June, and John Bowers of Bedford who died on July 4.

William H. Parker of Lynn, 91, was the oldest man at yesterday's reunion and John C. Kane of Salem, 79, the youngest. Walter Morse of Haverhill was the second youngest present, being 77 years old.

MANUFACTURER'S SALE

Starts Thursday, July 24, Ends Saturday, August 2

Recognized as Portsmouth's greatest value giving shoe store. Our announcement of the purchase of a prominent manufacturer's surplus stock of white shoes makes possible the greatest value giving shoe sale that this city ever experienced. The cold, wet spring and early summer in all parts of the country caused the accumulation of a large amount of white shoes and tennis shoes and together with the rapidly increasing prices of shoes have made it imperative that the manufacturer sell and sell quickly to protect his business. Case after case of new white shoes will be ready Thursday, July 24th, at 9 o'clock for the biggest value giving shoe sale that Portsmouth ever saw. Nothing reserved, every tennis and white shoe is included and so arranged to make your buying quick, easy and convenient.

The people of this community have been accustomed to so many questionable sales that I hesitated somewhat in buying this splendid white stock. But the shoes were of such fine quality and the manufacturer so anxious to sell that he accepted an extremely low price for the entire stock. I can assure you absolutely that these shoes will be sold under the cost of manufacture today. I strongly advise our patrons to buy these shoes to their utmost capacity for it is doubtful if we will ever be able to offer such extreme values again.

NAVY YARD DEFEAT P. A. C.

Ex-Champions Give Sutton Poor Support ---Losing Pitcher Plays a Great Game

Sunset League Standing.

Team	Won	Lost	P.C.
Navy Yard	8	2	.800
Atlantic	7	3	.700
Southerly	6	3	.666
K. of C.	4	3	.571
Y. M. C. A.	2	0	.182
P. A. C.	1	7	.125

Navy Yard, he was steady and although he was hit for four hits with perfect support they would not have netted a run. McPheters played third for the P. A. C. and it was his first game of the season and he was off color.

The win gives the Navy Yard a two-game lead in the league and it is a commanding position at this stage of the schedule.

The P. A. C. were up and in order: Gannon struck out; Irvine was thrown out by a foul fly for Bailey; Bruce laid down a pretty bunt along the third base line good for a hit; Brackett flied to right and Bruce was caught stealing on a pretty peg by Bailey.

The Navy Yard were out in order: Gannon struck out; Irvine was thrown out by McPheters; Hayes walked but was picked off first by Sutton.

In the second Wilbur was thrown out by Broderick and Bill Leary and Howard were called out on strikes.

This was the comedy of errors for the Ex-Champs. Cashman rolled one to McPheters which he fumbled; Bailey hit to Sutton who threw to second to force Cashman but Beattie dropped the ball with plenty of time for a double play; Davis bunted to Sutton, but there was nobody covering third or second and he threw to first and Wilbur dropped the ball; Broderick flied to center; Mastan flied to Bill Leary in right and he was wide of the plate. In his throw Cashman scored, Brackett threw to McPheters to get Bailey in plenty of time but Mac let it get away and Bailey continued on home; Sutton rolled one to Sutton and he was out at first. Two runs.

The P. A. C. failed to score in the third; McPheters flied to Hayes; Beattie was out Sutton to Hayes and Sutton was out on strikes.

The Navy Yard were out in order: Gannon on a fly to Bruce; Irvine and Hayes struck out.

The P. A. C. had up the score in the fourth; Pilgrim dropped a single over second; Bruce raised one for Cashman; Brackett hit to Gannon who fumbled; Wilbur hit a hot one at Broderick who failed to stop it and Pilgrim scored; Brackett going to third; Wilbur by a delayed steal pulled a throw to second and Brackett scored; W. Leary rolled one to Hayes. Two runs.

Cashman fanned; Bailey hit the first single off Sutton to center, he was safe on second when Bruce let the throw get away and went in third and a peg by Howard was good enough to get him at third but McPheters dropped the ball; Davis struck out; Broderick raised a single to right and Bailey scored; Mastan rolled the side by forcing Broderick at second. One run.

In the fifth it looked as though the P. A. C. would come through; Howard raised a fly to Cashman; McPheters dropped one over second for a single; Beattie hit a basty single to left center which Irvine made a great stop of and held McPheters at second. It looked good for two more bases; McPheters was caught off second and run down, and Sutton ended the game Sutton to Hayes.

LOCAL BOY WHO MADE SUPREME SACRIFICE

SYDNEY R. PICKLES

The above is a out of Sydney R. Pickles, one of Portsmouth's well known and estimable young men who made the supreme sacrifice, having been killed on the field of battle early last October.

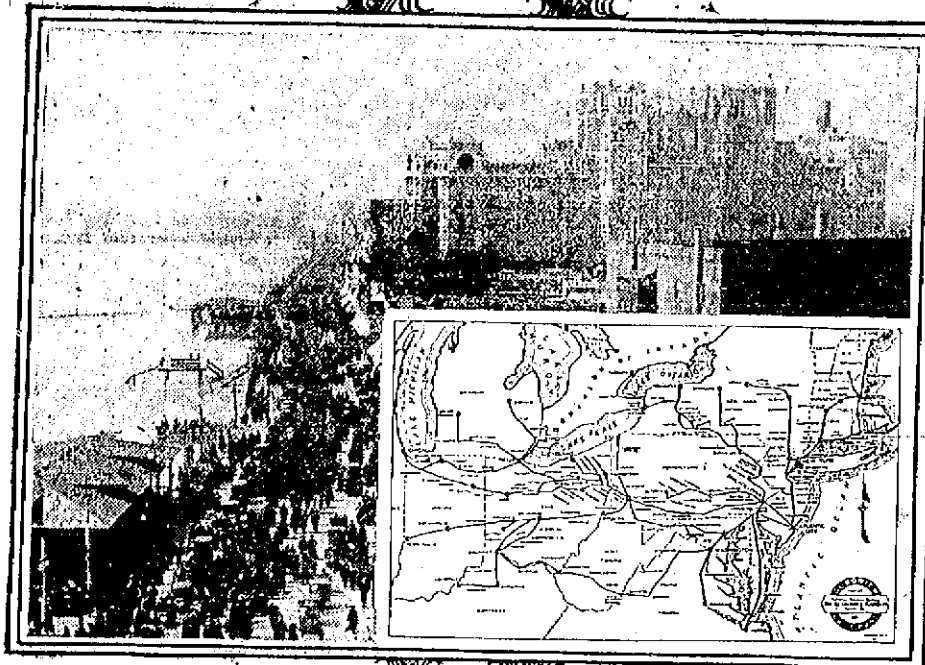

The young man was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Pickles of 11 Burdett street. He held a position for some years in the D. F. Northwick dry goods store and later was employed on the navy yard. He sailed for France July 8, 1918. A blue star in the North church service flag has recently been

ATLANTIC DEFEAT THE MARINES

The Atlantic played a seven inning game with the Marines at the Navy Yard on Monday evening and won out by a score of 5 to 3. Horan pitched a good game allowing five hits the most of which were in the seventh when the Marines scored three runs, he was steady not allowing a pass and struck out seven men. Powell pitched for the Marines and he was effective until the sixth when they reached him hard and Patterson took his place.

IT WOULD BE SECOND VISIT OF THE PRINCE

Should the Prince of Wales pass through Portsmouth on his way from Canada to New York or Boston it would be the second visit of a man of that title. His late grandfather, the Prince of Wales, who later became King Edward in succession to his mother, Victoria, moved from this city to Portland in 1850 over the old Portland Saco and Portsmouth, in a special train with Charles H. Howe of Portsmouth as engineer.

GERMAN WAR TROPHY SHIPPED TO THIS CITY

Chairman Frederick M. Sise of the Liberty Loan committee has received word that the German cannon captured by the United States troops which was awarded to this city, has been shipped from New York to this city. The field piece which was recently brought to this country is shipped direct to the Liberty Loan Chairman who is the custodian for the city.

The size of the piece is not given and until it arrives, no move toward selecting a site for it will be made. At that time the City Council will be asked to accept the piece for the city and to select a site for it. It has been suggested that Haymarket Square would be a suitable place for it, especially if it is a small piece which can be accommodated on the green plot. If it is a three or six inch piece it may be located in either the Goodwin or the Haven Parks. The Haymarket Square would be the best ..? especially if the proposed memorial tablet is placed there.

The city is awarded the cannon for its showing in the last liberty loan. The Treasury department offered four pieces for New England, for the cities in four classes which made the largest percentage of subscribers based on the 1910 population. The Federal Reserve Bank credited this city with over 10,000 subscribers and based on the 1910 population it was such a high percentage that they inquired for the present population. The official percentage subsequently worked out was 47 per cent, which was the second highest in New England. Billerica in the fourth class was highest with 63 per cent.

BETRAYED THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND

German Officers, Prisoners of War,
Brought to This Country to Protect Their Lives---Gave Hindenburg's Plans to General Pershing

(By Associated Press)

Washington, July 21.—A story of the betrayal of the German high command to the American Secret Service and the organization of a vendetta by German officers pledged to take revenge on the officers implicated, was brought out today by the arrival of two German prisoners on the Agamemnon, consigned to the United States Military Intelligence Department, Washington. According to the information the prisoners were German officers of high rank who occupied an important position under Field Marshal Hindenburg in 1917.

Operators of the American intelligence system prevailed upon them to deliver to them very important plans of the German high command, and from these plans it is said that General Pershing was able to plan his campaign. The plans gave the entire German advance, the lines of retreat and all necessary information so that General Pershing was able to plan his attack with much less than otherwise.

The German officers subsequently surrendered to the Americans and in some manner the German officers became suspicious and it was with difficulty that they were guarded. It was thought that they could be better guarded in this country and they were sent over under a strong guard, but then an error of a clerk they were listed in the passengers on the big steamship. The plan was to send the two officers to a military camp where they would have proper protection and in time they would be allowed to escape and go to another country to take up their lives anew. It is not known what will be done now that the story has leaked out.

what appeared to be general liquidation. Later the market rallied about 50 points on covering.

BOND PROVISION OUT OF PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

House Votes, 83 to 26, Against Jailing Convicted Offenders Who Cannot Give Security

Washington, July 21.—By a vote of 83 to 26, the House today eliminated the section of the prohibition enforcement bill which would have authorized the courts at their discretion to send to jail persons convicted of violating the law who could not furnish bond that they would not again violate it within a year. Representative Gurd, Democrat of Ohio, author of the amendment to strike out the section, declared it afforded "a unique method of double punishment for poor men who were unable to give bond."

At the speed with which the House worked after it resumed consideration of the measure today leaders said it might be passed tonight.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bifos-phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and Increase Strength, Vigor

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft, curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness. Thinness and weakness are often due to stored nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as Bifos-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphate food elements, Bifos-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing. Increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, about soon disappear, dull eyes ought to brighten and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Although Bifos-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its tendency to increase weight, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

TO AID IN RECONSTRUCTION OF BELGIUM

Brussels, July 21, (Correspondence of The Associated Press)—Henry H. Morgan, American High Trade Commissioner in Belgium, has established a commercial organization here to aid in the reconstruction of Belgian industries. He announces that this organization is at the disposal of all merchants and manufacturers in Belgium and America.

To an Associated Press correspondent Mr. Morgan said that, in view of what the Belgians already have accomplished, he did not feel discouraged over industrial conditions in this country. "On the contrary," he said, "I feel certain that they will carry their reconstruction program thru to a successful conclusion. I notice an intense cultivation of the soil which will result in the next crop being nearly equal to pre-war crops."

"Virtually all the glass factories in the country now are in operation and thirty percent of the textile looms now are busy spinning raw cotton arriving from the United States."

"It is estimated that the loan of 500,000,000 francs which American bankers have agreed to extend to Belgium will go a long way toward reconstruction. It also will have a beneficial effect upon the purchase price of the franc which at the present time is very low. Repayment of this loan is not to commence until 1930. It is only by rapidly building her mills that Belgium can hope to pay back this loan in the production of her manufactured goods."

Mr. Morgan said it was estimated that the Germans had carried away one-third of the Belgian live stock. Experts of the United States Department of Agriculture is shipping breeding stock to Belgium.

"It is my understanding," added Mr. Morgan, "that preparations now are underway for sending a fleet of thirty vessels, each carrying live stock."

THE STORIES THE DEWDROPS TOLD

Written for the United States School Garden Army,
Department of the Interior.

Part I—Dolly Meets the Bald-Headed Fairy.

Dolly felt very cheerful and happy this morning. She was neatly dressed. Nephthine had given her a loving pat on the cheek through the hair. Maria was trotting after her heels.

"I wonder what Fairy I shall meet today," thought Dolly, as she went into the garden. It had become a very happy place for the little girl. She did not know how much she was learning, but she had grown to love her Fairy friends dearly.

She had walked quite a way into the garden before she saw a Dewdrop Fairy. She had learned how to look for them, and was not surprised when she saw one perched on the top of a very slim stalk or leaf. He looked as though he might tumble down any minute, because the top of the leaf was so small that it was almost a point. But he was very little. He wore a white coat and knee trousers and green stockings and shoes. He had a little light green cap.

"Good morning, Miss Dolly," said the Fairy.

He was the first who had called her "Miss." Dolly felt quite grown up.

"Good morning, Mr. Fairy," she said as politely as he.

"I suppose you were looking for me?" he said.

"I was looking for a Dewdrop Fairy. I am sure you are one."

"Oh yes, I came to see you this morning because our Queen told me you were a young lady who liked to hear about all the vegetables in the garden. I don't think we have met before. But perhaps you have noticed me."

"How could I notice you if we have not met?" asked Dolly.

"Well—perhaps your nose—but never mind," said the Fairy. "It is very warm for this time of the year. Don't you think so?" And he took off his cap.

Dolly almost gasped. He was quite bald! Not a hair on his head! And his head? And his head was white—just as white as could be.

"Oh," thought Dolly. "He hasn't got a hair on his head—he hasn't any more hair than—an onion. Oh, I believe he is an Onion!"

"Of course, I am!" said the Fairy. Dolly had forgotten they could read her thoughts.

"I am sure it looks very nice and—good," she said.

"Oh, I am cool enough—to look at,"

said the onion. "But I am good and warm inside, as you will soon find out when you eat me."

"Eat you?" cried Dolly.

"Of course. That is what we are for, isn't it? I am sure my plant is not very beautiful, although when it is in seed the tops are quite pretty. But we don't go in for looks as much as some plants—the pea for instance. But we are very useful."

"I like spring onions," said Dolly.

"Yes, in the spring we haven't any heads."

"How dreadful—no heads?"

"You know that. We are just straight little stems then. But after a while we get heads, and they are good ones."

"Oh, do some of you have red heads?"

"Yes. And those are the best kind to keep all winter. But any of us are pretty good for that."

Dolly had heard a great deal about onions because her brothers, Bob and Billie, were soldiers in the United States School Garden Army. Both boys were helping to make a garden, and onions were among the first vegetables planted.

A Fleet Of R-34's Was Sent to Bomb Us

(From the Brooklyn Standard Union)

Those who believe this country should devote more attention to aerial defense properly make use of the R-34's flight across the Atlantic to give point to their argument. If they were upholders a week ago, it was plain to all that an enemy in Europe could attack us by air and possibly do considerable damage before being driven off. And as years pass the ease of this form of assault will grow unless we take steps to meet the danger which, however, is not alarming.

One way to look at the matter is to recall the war history of the Zeppelins. Many were sent a distance of a few hundred miles to level London and most of them proved their way over England and dropped bombs aimlessly. Others did reach the British metropolis, but as an offensive war machine nothing in which the Germans reposed great hopes failed so utterly as the creations of Count Zeppelin. Indeed, after the last disastrous raid upon Britain in which four or five of these huge dirigibles were lost, they were abandoned for bombing purposes and employed to patrol the North Sea and other places.

Dirigibles are too clumsy and slow for dashing attacks, such as is considered desirable, and, moreover, they are such magnificent targets for anti-aircraft guns. Nevertheless, the arrival of the British flyer should serve to bring home to Americans that the Atlantic and the Pacific are not the barriers they were a few years ago. We should keep our military establishments, especially the aviation branch, up to a high mark and never permit the country to slip back into the belief that we are virtually safe from an attack by air.

JAPAN WANTS RACIAL EQUALITY

Yokohama, July 21, Correspondence of The Associated Press.—(Editor of The Peace Conference at Paris to adopt Japan's proposal of racial equality was denounced by Marquis Okuma, formerly Premier of Japan, in an address he delivered recently before the Japan Civilization Society. "It is a blot on justice and humanity that the whites, who constitute less than one-third of the world's population assume the control of the world, and I declare that a justice and a humanity which do not recognize racial equality are unworthy of the name," he said.

"Germany has hitherto been a great influence in the world, and this influence is about to be replaced by Anglo-American influence which will produce a far reaching effect on the rest of mankind."

Concluding, Marquis Okuma said that the Japanese are considerably inferior to westerners in intellectual powers, physical strength and wealth, and they must show no hesitation in possessing themselves of whatever is required to make them the equal of others. He added:

"There is nothing wrong in securing development, morally, economically and socially. If the best efforts are made in these directions it is to be hoped that no great difficulty will be experienced in surpassing the arrogant westerners and bringing them to their knees."

HELD COMMUNITY SING.

A community song service was held at the P. A. G. tent last evening, but owing to the dampness and heat for the attendance was not large. All present, however, took part in the singing of well known hymns. Mrs. C. L. Thompson presided at the piano.

ALL FEARED MOON

Soldiers Regarded Orb of Night as Their Enemy.

Lighted Roads on Which They Were Moving, and Thus Gave Enemy Gunners a Chance to Deal Out Death.

"The war is ended; the battlefields are being cleared of their debris; the rusty wire is being rolled up. The nights can be spent in beds, yet the men of the One Hundred and Nineteenth field artillery even now look at the sky with dread," says L. L. Stevenson in the Detroit News.

"The battlefields are not distant. Nor are the days distant when the moonlight was a menace to the One Hundred and Nineteenth."

"We were riding back from Toul, a little company of Detroit men, who had celebrated a birthday anniversary in that old, walled city. We had been discussing many things, principal of which was the homecoming, plans for the future and those whom we wished were with us. When the moon swung over those forts on the hill, concealed no longer, and fell a silence over the veterans."

"They seemed to draw into themselves. Came a loud report, and the artillerymen half rose in their seats. It was only a rear tire, yet the effect on the veterans was the same as though the blow had been the detonation of that which had dropped from the sky."

"And simultaneously all damned the moon, as though that inoffensive orb had been the cause."

"Then they told me of those nights—marching along, the highways, helplessness, Jerry swooping low and spraying lead at them from his machine guns, of bombs that were silent until they spoke in screams of death. They spoke also of the night when Buck was killed, when Captain William A. Atkinson, now quite recovered, lay in a pool of blood; when others with whom I had eaten and slept and camped up at Grayling, had faltered the great mystery."

"It seemed to be a relief to them, a lifting of the weight, and I said nothing though all the beauty of the night had departed. Strange scenes danced about my eyes; the giant, unfinished military hospital on the left was a gray ghost; those twinkling lights gleaming now, but not long ago had they shone they would have been an invitation to death—were far away fires, the deserted ammunition dump was animated with avenging figures."

"It was as though a weight had been lifted when we entered Marnes-la-Meudre, clear and distinct in the bright light stood a sentry, a stalwart fellow, his naturally large build magnified by the silver beams until he was a giant. The way he carried himself, the fit of his uniform, told that he was a veteran. "And he was slinking his fist at the moon!"

Reims Cathedral.

Reims cathedral is to be rebuilt, or rather restored, for France has taken second thought and decided that such restoration is far more desirable for the future than a splendid structure, wrecked by war, and left to stand in melancholy demolition as a perpetual reminder of its own destruction. It is even said that "the cold gray of its masonry has turned under fire and flame to delicate rose and other tints that will only add to the beauty of the rebuilt church." The plans for the restoration are being made under the direction of Mr. Deneux, architect of the French historical monuments, and the first practical steps have been taken toward erecting temporary roofs over the nave, aisles, crossing and chancel. Fortunately, more than three-quarters of the wonderful stained glass of the cathedral was preserved intact, and can now be put back. A few years hence, when the high-pitched slate roof has been added, it is predicted that the cathedral will have recovered not a little of its old-time beauty.

The High Cost of Economy.

Economy is something practiced by people who don't have to economize. Mrs. Wealthy buys eggs by the dozens and puts them down in yaffor glass. Mrs. Poor never could afford more than one dozen eggs at one time regardless of price.

Mrs. Wealthy buys flour and sugar by the barrel—at a great saving. Mrs. Poor buys hers by the pound—and it is expensive.

Mrs. Wealthy takes advantage of the sales and gets real bargains in furniture, shoes and clothes. Mrs. Poor can only look in the display windows longingly.

In short, Mrs. Wealthy uses her head where Mrs. Poor must use her husband's salary.

It is a pathetic fact that it takes money to economize.—G. W. Gabriel in the New York Sun.

Where He Would Have Been.

In the pouring rain the other day, James G. Balfour, the banker, was standing in front of the Quaker City bank, of which he is a director, when an Irishman dashed across the street.

Mr. Balfour, with that kindly and consoling manner which is habitual with him, offered a plenary. "If this was good liquor," he said, "you wouldn't be coming so quick."

Sentiment and Business

By JACK LAWTON

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Gerald Gordon was a "heart-breaker." That is what his own familiar friends good-naturedly dubbed him.

"No use for us to try to step in, Gerry," they would say. "The girls can't see anyone else when you're around."

And, silently, Gerald, accepted the statement; why attempt to deny what was patently true?

"I'll be hanged if I can see what makes you irresistible to the feminine eye," Tom cheerfully remarked.

"It may be the feminine mind, to which I appeal," Gerry modestly suggested. "I sure have a way with the woman."

"In Carletonville you'll be everlastingly," Tom said, mournfully. "I wonder why I brought you out, just when I'm having a budding affair of my own?"

"Here, before we go, native mules had things pretty much our own way, but after my college acquaintance with you, I can see that things are going to happen to us."

"Lead me on," Gerald boastfully invited, and Tom did.

The first pretty girl to whom the visitor was presented was Tom's cousin. In the course of events Tom's own sweetheart, followed, and after that several other charming girls of village society.

Finally, and lastly, Gerald conquered everything. The girls seemed but to wait his invitations, refusing attentions of former cavaliers, in the fear that they might not be free to accept those of the conquering stranger.

"What the deuce do you talk about to keep a girl entertained for hours at a stretch?" Tom nervously questioned.

"It isn't my talk," Gerald pleasantly explained, "they like the way I do my hair."

But the conqueror's own interest appeared to be aroused for the first time, an auto, driven by a charming girl, rolled past the veranda where the two friends sat.

"Who," asked Gerald eagerly, "is that lovely girl? I have met her several times on the street. She's a winner, and she doesn't seem to mix with any of you."

"Right, as usual," Tom agreed, "and the answer is that she won't mix. Prefers to tear around the country in her splendid car, stops at the hotel with a severe old aunt, and turns down all invites the girls give her. Comes from a fine family in the city, too; they have mutual friends here."

"Judge Baker's wife introduced me to the girl, but I did not seem to make a hit."

"I'm going to meet her right now," Gerald declared.

Tom studied the young man in white flannels before him.

"You'll be the lucky guy, of course," he said ruefully. And so it afterward appeared.

"Like had, not like," the girls remarked bitterly, and there was speculation as to the ending of the affair.

Every afternoon Miss Standish, from the city, awaited at the hotel dear the appearance of Gerald Gordon. Then together they would whirl away in her soft-rolling car.

In the enjoyment of the game Gerald had been conscienceless—and had not realized a serious side. Now Tom rapped at his friend's fits of moody abstraction.

"Why mope?" he asked gayly, "is not the fair lady already won? Else why these daily trips along the river road, the long rides up steep country hills?"

"The rides," Gerry replied, "are all right. But why won't Ruth Standish let me visit her at the hotel—or come with me to some of your confounded dances, or—"

"The aunt," Tom suggested, "may object."

Gerald's gloomy face brightened.

"If you love the girl," Tom burst out, "why don't you tell her so?"

"I will," Gerald suddenly decided, and crossed the street to where his ideal sat on the hotel veranda.

Resolutely the conqueror of feminine hearts approached and dropped into a chair at the girl's side.

"I have something to tell you," Gerald began, "and I'm going to say it now while I have the chance. In a minute that old—your aunt—will be here, and while we are driving you deliberately avoid giving me an opportunity."

"I love you, Ruth Standish; no man ever loved woman more; and I want you to be my wife."

Flushing, the girl sprang to her feet.

"Mr. Gordon!" she remonstrated, "why do you talk like that? I have given you absolutely no encouragement—none at all. There can be no question of love between us."

"No encouragement!" Gerry cried fiercely; "what of those rides in the car—your car—you called and took my very soul, and—"

"Dear me!" said Miss Standish demurely. "I did not think it necessary to explain that the object of my tiny hercules demonstrating in a small way machinism from my brother's business concern in the city. He has been short of help since the war, and I've been most successful in selling. Didn't Tom tell you that he has ordered one of our cars? I've also sold one to Judge Barker. But as for sentiment, Mr. Gordon—"

Gerald's ideal vanished before the mocking laughter of the girl's dark eyes—"never mix sentiment with business,"

My Misadventure

By Odell Francis Fiske

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

"Where's that boy? Is he ever around when he's wanted? Tell you with all my worries it's about time he bucked down to doing something useful."

"Don't scold, Uncle, dear. Martin is a good boy, thinks the world of both of us, and, if he is a little forgetful and heedless at times, he makes up for it when you remind him of it in a gentle, reasoning way. This, especially, after he begged off from his regular chores to go hunting for those two burglars who robbed the bank night before last."

"Expected to catch them and get that $5,000 reward, I suppose," mocked old John Wadhams. "Oh, yes! that unlucky night over strike such fortune! It's not the way of this unfortunate family. We've had nothing but loss and mishap since mother died. With the money I owe and can't pay, and that boy wasting his time, I'm fretted to death half the time!"

"I've got all the kidding in," said Ora Dale, "and I agree with Martin to do the milking, so everything will be attended just the same, as if he were here. I gave him the afternoon."

"Afternoon and evening, too, it looks for it getting dark."

"Oh, Martin will be along soon," soothed Ora. "He and his chums are all excited about those robbers and they have gone off with wooden guns, boy-like, to 'capture' them, as they hope and plan. Old John Wadhams went off mumbly, retreating his complaints. Ora, sighed, a trifle, then drove away the cloud that hovered by humming a pretty little air about birds, and sunshine, and flowers. She had her cross to bear as well as Uncle John, but it came from sharing his troubles, real and imaginary. Ora was his niece and a homeless orphan when, after the death of Aunt Mary she was sent for by Uncle John to take up her home with himself and his mother, less boy. She became the angel of the house, a blessing to the old man, if he only knew it, for she helped him carry his burdens, and her diligence and economy lightened the expenses and brought comfort and contentment, the latter to young Martin, at least, who otherwise was inclined to "go out into the world and seek his fortune on his own hook," as he expressed it, although not yet twelve years of age."

Martin fairly idolized Ora and fully appreciated her numberless sacrifices in behalf of his father, and himself. He knew, as all Cleveland knew, that Ora was giving up the dream, and glory of her life through her loyal, unselfish devotion to her uncle, Ernest Throop. In love with her, had told her so and he was a sultor to be proud of—manly, industrious and honorable. Ora loved him in return, but she had told him clearly that she could not leave her uncle while he was crushed under a burden of debt and while Martin was too young to shift for himself. Duty was the watchword of her life, and nobly she lived up to its teachings. All Cleveland was astir at the moment over the bank robbery. Two men had broken into the institution, and had made off with a small fortune. The watchman had "waged" one of them in their flight, he declared, for he had seen the fugitive lift one hand to his breast as he ran. A second shot had caused the other burglar to waver and limp and blood stains had been traced for some distance down the river shore.

Meantime Martin, the well intentioned but thoughtless, had lingered with his companions clear into dusk. Then in a game of hide and seek he had crept into one of the numerous earthen water pipes lining the river bluff, ready to be used in a new reservoir system adopted by the town. There he cuddled, planning to wait till the seekers had passed by and then make for home. He chuckled at four of his fagged-out comrades sat down on the very pipe he was in. Then, starting on again, somehow they gave it a push. Over the ledge it rolled twenty feet, reversed, spilled out. Martin rolled after it and, half stunned, came to a stop a few yards from an old wreck of a house that had been a landmark for a year past.

In a sort of a haze he saw two men come out of the dismantled cabin of the craft. One had his arm in a sling, the other limped. In a flash Martin Wadhams had an inspiration—these were the bank burglars!

"The first words of one of them confirmed this conviction: "Pipe rolled over, I reckon. You go north, Tom and me south. We must pick up a chicken or some eggs or we'll starve."

"Yes, we must make a break from here," growled the other.

It was after dark when Martin Wadhams burst into the house in a frenzied state of excitement. He carried a small sack and was breathless. "Father! Ora!" he shouted, "the burglars!"

"What of them?" questioned his consternated father.

"I've found them! I've got the bank money! I found it in the old house boat. It's in the sack. And you must get the officers here, right away. And we can catch the burglars! And, father, the big reward! And now you can pay what you owe, and Oh, Ora! now you can marry Ernest Throop!"

A Call For "Anyone" Saves Time and Money

We know that many telephone toll calls can be satisfactorily completed if the call is made for anyone at a telephone address instead of for a particular person. If it is not absolutely necessary to talk with a particular person, one can transact one's business, in most instances, if communication is established with an office or residence.

If YOU can make your TOLL calls this way, the rate will be about 25 per cent less.

Quicker service will be obtained if you call the telephone number desired. If you do not know the number, the toll operator will get it for you.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEW YORK

N. H. FARMERS CAN SELL CATTLE TO FRANCE

New Hampshire farmers have an opportunity to sell dairy cattle to France. The U. S. Department of Agriculture advises that the French Government has sent a commission to the United States to negotiate for several thousand head of dairy cattle. The Department points out how breeders of this country may help the farmers of France, and likewise benefit the animal industry of the United States. The number of cattle to be supplied will depend upon the ability of American dairymen to furnish sufficiently good animals at the prices the Commission is prepared to offer. It is expected that about three thousand cows and heifers will be purchased the first month, and the number will be increased if the animals are satisfactory. This will be the second purchase of dairy cattle for the devastated regions of France. The first, last April, consisted principally of 101 pure bred and grade cows and four pure bred bulls, purchased by the French High Commission. This importation was in the nature of a trial order, and others which will be obtained are to be used as foundation herds by the French farmers. Two per cent of the total shipments, as specified by the French officials, are to be bulls. The U. S. Department regulations regarding the transportation of live stock to foreign countries have been revised, effective June 5th, and apply to dairy cattle as well as to beef cattle, which in past years have constituted the bulk of the shipments. The U. S. Bureau of Markets, through its foreign trade division, has arranged for the immediate shipment of the cattle, and inspectors of the Bureau of Animal Industry will make the necessary certification to the health of the export cattle, and an official health certificate will accompany every purchase.

The success of live stock exportation from the United States depends principally on the cooperation of the breeders, and repeat orders will depend on the measure of satisfaction given.

Secretary Edgar A. Perry of the N. H. Sheep Breeders' Association, Meredith, N. H., advises that a large quantity of wool has been assembled at Meredith and Keene, N. H., under the direction of the Association, and that over 130 different shipments from 62 towns have already arrived at the Meredith storehouse, in order to give the farmers who have not already availed themselves of the opportunity of selling through the Association, the chance to do so, the time has been extended from July 1st to July 15th in which they may ship their wool, either Keene or Meredith, N. H. Special arrangements have been recently made whereby 12 1/2¢ per pound on a deposit will be paid on all wool shipped to Meredith, and checks will soon be sent to those who have already sent in their wool. Buyers from Boston and some of the larger woolen mills have recently looked the wool over, and are anxious to bid on this lot as soon as it is graded and ready for market.

of the Pennsylvania Rubber Company, makers of the famous Vacuum Cup Tires, he conceived the idea of having a set of these tires made bearing his autograph, worked in rubber on the sides. His idea was so innovative, that General Manager, Seneca G. Lewis, immediately set his experts to work on it, with the result that such tires were successfully evolved. On the Vacuum Cup Cord Tires which he recently purchased, the indelible signature of the comedian, in bright red rubber, stood out in striking relief.

The tires, while designed primarily as a personal touch, prove even more. The name cannot be destroyed without mutilating the tire to a considerable extent, and thus proves an effective safeguard against theft.

Mr. Stone has been a user of Vacuum Cup Tires for a number of years, and so enthusiastic has been his advocacy of their goodness and wear-resisting qualities, that many prominent persons of his profession have, upon his recommendation, given them a trial, to their unvarying satisfaction.

DANCING CRAZE IN CAPITAL

Washington, July 21.—Washington is a dance crazy, and despite the heat and extreme humidity of the summer months here, the roof gardens and the road houses are crowded nightly with devotees of the jazz. The "shimmy" is not crowned upon except in a few of the more exclusive places, and it is not altogether uncommon in these "cheek dancing" is the regular thing at the popular dancing places and it's rather an amusing spectacle to see a six-foot-two marine officer howl over so that he may rest his cheek close to some fluffing thing which stands about five feet one in her heel pumps. Staid old Senators have fallen for the dancing craze, and as a result of their conservative tastes the orchestras have returned to the old-time waltz.

Even Uncle Joe Cannon has succumbed to the lure of the dance, although he admits that the new dances are a little bit too strong for him. At a dance given to the Illinois State girls the other night he wiggled his toes to the strains of the jazz for about an hour, and, unable to resist the desire any longer, walked over to the band leader and called for an old-fashioned Virginia reel, which he led off with great gallantry and agility.

In the days of the war Washington was a languid place in summer, and the evening's entertainment usually consisted of a dinner with a varied assortment of drinks supposed to be cooling, but in reality having the contrary effect. The thing to do, was to go to Shoemaker's or Harvey's, where they specialized on mint juleps with a quarter-inch of ice on the glass.

And the bartenders at Shoemaker's used to mix a strange red cocktail under the mahogany. Its ingredients were a deep, dark secret, and this was the principal reason why so many of them were sold. One could get a half chicken a la Maryland right off the grill and big, delicious oysters from the Chesapeake.

And it was the fashion for parties bent on whiling away well to waste to Macl'herson square late in the evening for a drive on around the Potomac in one of the old sea-going open-faced hacks with their lacquered colored drivers. Out in the vicinity of Cabin John bridge there was a famous old gambling house with private rooms for poker and where the roulette wheel clicked the night long. It was a great resort for members of Congress.

Today the old buildings with their queer old minarets are neglected and shabby. Part of the place has been opened as a roadhouse and the guests are not infrequently guided into misty old rooms where they are told thousands of dollars passed over the table in a night. "And they never drank anything but wine, wine all the time," sighs the old waiter, "and tips, why Senator so-and-so never gave me less than $10."

He moved over to a nearby table with a sad look in his eyes to accept a quarter from an indignant young lieutenant who was on the point of leaving after purchasing two lemonades and dancing two hours with his best girl.

The ice cream parlors and soda places are doing a tremendous business. In Washington there are two and three big maple houses to a block in some places and with the aid of the jazz orchestras and the dance the capital seems to be having a pretty good time in general indifference to the fact that Chairman Volstead of the Judiciary committee is putting the ban on buttermilk and cider and that the House galleries are filled with earnest guardians of the public morals who later on contemplate a campaign to make smoking a crime, and the indulgence in bunny hugs, shimmies, cheek dancing and such things an offense subject to imprisonment for life.

DON'T FAIL THIS DUTY

You owe it to yourself—to keep in touch with what is going on at home all the time. When you plan to leave on your vacation—have the Herald follow you. It will serve the purpose of many letters. Just phone 37 and the Herald will do the rest.

From 300 four-year-old Richmond cherry trees S. C. Stevens of South Carter, Kan., has just finished picking a crop of a little over 200 bushels that he sold at $4 a bushel. There are still 200 trees in the orchard, that occupied but little more than three acres, on which the fruit is not yet ripe, but the yield will be fully as heavy as the Early Richmonds.

The Herald never disappoints when it comes to serving up the news.

PALESTINE HOMELAND OF JEWRY

Britain to Make Proclamation
Shortly.

Boston, July 21.—That Palestine will be proclaimed shortly the Jewish national home, and that this declaration will be made by the British government within the next four weeks, was the announcement made yesterday by Dr. M. M. Eliezer, director of the Zionist bureau for New England, in speaking before the delegates attending the regional convention of New England Zionists, held in Elks Hall, Rye Beach.

The gathering, marked by the presence of leaders in Jewish life of New England, financiers, rabbis, lawyers and business men, received the statement with tremendous enthusiasm.

"Encouraging news has reached us concerning the speedy realization of our great aim, the establishment of a Jewish commonwealth in Palestine," Dr. Eliezer said. "Dr. Chaim Weizmann, in a recent cable, assures us that it is only a matter of a few weeks when all legal formalities will be completed and Palestine will be recognized as a Jewish homeland under the mandate of Great Britain and the supervision of the League of Nations."

"We New Englanders rejoice," the speaker continued, "that the man we call our own—our peerless leader—Justice Louis D. Brandeis, is at this very moment in Palestine studying at close range the needs of the land which shall in the near future be the scene of the greatest miracle of history—the resurrection of a nation after 1900 years of dormancy."

Samuel H. Waldstein, chairman of the supervising committee of New England Zionist Bureau, sounded the keynote of the meeting when he said:

"There is a new Palestine, new in the sense of opportunity and condition of development. That new Palestine demands a new Jewry, new in the sense of thinking in the terms of a new life. From all over, glad tidings of the realization of our fond hopes reach our ears. First stands out the great diplomatic victory won at the peace conference for the Jews in Poland. Equal rights in the only manner in which such rights are practicable, namely, minority national rights, are granted them. This amounts to a new charter of liberties to the Jews in Poland under the supervision of the League of Nations."

"We Jews of New England must stand shoulder to shoulder and be prepared for the duties that confront us at this critical moment, which will decide the real worth and vitality of the movement."

One of the most important resolutions passed by the convention and introduced by Henry H. Levenson, said in substance that in order to establish a homeland in Palestine for the Jews, it must be done in the spirit of social justice, equity and economic equality, and thus eliminate the evils of present day society. No enterprise, the resolution declared, shall be endorsed or furthered by the Zionists, unless it is based upon the principles and ideals of social justice, democracy, and a co-operative national effort.

The greater part of the day was taken up with discussion on the adoption of the Pittsburgh platform, adopted by the Zionists of America, in 1918. After considerable discussion, the delegates finally voted that the American Zionist administration should take effective steps with the inner action committee and with the forthcoming world Zionist congress to have carried into effect as soon as feasible, the various paragraphs of the Pittsburgh platform relating to the economic, industrial and financial conditions, necessary for the creation of the Jewish Commonwealth.

CHILDREN'S VACATION OVERDONE

Modern educators seriously question the wisdom of complete abandonment of all studies for several months.

Work and play for every day should be the ideal. Musical study fares scrappily enough with its one little hour a week.

Now in the best time for your child to study music with absolutely nothing else on its mind.
